25 Years of Beautiful Gardens at the Lititz Historical Foundation

Charlene Van Brookhoven

Sunday June 9, 1996 was a special day for The Lititz Historical Foundation. On that day the Mary Oehme Gardens was completed and ready for unveiling. After months of planning and many hours of work by dedicated LHF volunteers, the gardens to the rear of The Johannes Mueller House and The Lititz Museum were ready to be shared. With a large donation from William B. Oehme, Mary's husband, profits from LHF Tour of Gardens and private individuals, there was enough capital to complete the project.

The extensive improvements tied the two houses together and would be the perfect setting for private and community functions. Derck and Edson Associates drew up the plans for the landscape architecture and also the management of the project to completion. A limestone retaining wall, fencing, walkways, benches, electricity and water were added as well as handicap accessibility. These amenities have added greatly to the tranquility and warmth to the Foundation property.

The Mary Oehme Gardens would not have been quite as lovely without many hands from dedicated volunteers. Each spring Carl Shuman, a water garden expert, cleaned the century-old fish pond and added water lilies to provide shelter for the resident goldfish. The Lititz Woman's Club tended the herb garden and Lititz Women of Today planted perennials, some of which still appear each spring.

Lititz: Then and Now

Photographed approximately 100 years apart, here's a Then versus Now peek of the intersection of and South Broad and Lemon Streets in Lititz looking north. As you can see, very little has changed across a century!

25 Years of Beautiful Gardens at the Lititz Historical Foundation Con't:

Curtis Zeller gave of his time mowing the lush green grass during the summer months and tidying up the falling leaves in the autumn. Lee Stoltzfus, a designer of period landscapes, compiled a list of plants that would have been growing at the time these two 18th century homes were built. Lee so kindly added these words during the planning stages of the garden.

"I am convinced that you have created the perfect setting for a state of the art showcase of historical Moravian horticulture."

Please plan to join the 25-year anniversary celebration in the Mary L.Oehme Gardens on the second Friday of June – June 11 – 5-8 p.m. Self-guided tours of the gardens plus light refreshments will be available with free admission. If you have a question on how to rent the gardens for special events, volunteers will be there with answers.
